ORANGEBURG, S. C., APRIL 4, 1879.

Some malignant slanderer says: "Woman needs no eulogist, for she speaks for herself."

We hear that there are a number of dogs in town that have been bitten by mad dogs. These ought to be killed without delay.

Spring suits are now in order. You can ascertain where your wants in this line can be obtained by consulting the columns of the DEMOCRAT.

We move that somebody give a big fish dinner or picnic and invite us to it. If anybody seconds this motion they will please let us hear from them immediately.

Our young friend, Mr. B. H. Moss, left at our office last Wednesday some strawberries nearly ripe, which he picked from his father's garden. These are the first we have seen this season.

The oldest son of Dr. W. M. Dantzler, of St. Matthews, died on the 29th, and was buried on the 30th March last. Severely afflicted from his birth, death is indeed a gain, yet the hearts of dear ones are bowed in grief because of this bereavement.

The weather has changed suddenly from pleasant spring to chilling winter, and overcoats and fires are in demand again. We trust, however, our people will be sufficiently guarded to protect themselves from its evil consequences.

We learn that on Sunday evening last there was hail in several portions of our county. In Middle St. Matthews it was sufficiently heavy to do considerable damage to crops if they had been forward enough. Above the village and below the hail was not quite so heavy.

The concert and tableaux in aid of the A. M. E. Church, given on Wednesday evening, was a success. The proceeds of these entertainments go towards finishing the Church building, and we hope our colored friends will succeed in raising the necessary funds to complete their church edifice.

We call the attention of our readers to the advertisement, by a lady of this county, for a situation as teacher of the English branches in a small school or family. Any one in need of a governess or any community in need of a teacher for a small school will do well to give this application their attention. We know the applicant to be competent and fully qualified to take charge especially of small children.

On Wednesday last the usual quiet of New Street was suddenly disturbed by a runaway horse and wagon belonging to Dr. Cooke, of Claflin University. The horse took fright at Messrs. Straus & Co.'s mill, and ran wildly toward the rail road, taking the sidewalk nearly the whole distance. Fortunately the animal was stopped before any damage was done to the vehicle, and Mr. Kelly, the driver, was relieved of a most terrible anxiety.

It is difficult to say what constitutes the beauty of a woman. The Sandwich Islanders estimate women by their height. The Chinese require them to have deformed feet and black teeth. A girl must be tattooed sky-blue and wear a nose-ring to satisfy a South Sea Islander's taste. African princes require their brides to have their teeth filed like those of a saw. In our country the greatest charm of woman is modesty. Who can keep from admiring a sweet, modest woman? Why the angels must admire such a being.

Mr. August Fischer's success is still on the increase. So much so as to require the sale of his old safe to be replaced by a new, a better and a larger one. A call at his store and an examination of his stock will explain the secret of his success. Supplies in every line may be purchased here at the lowest prices and of the best quality.

We would call the attention of our Postmaster, Mr. Webster, to the necessity of opening the Northern mail on the evening of its arrival, instead of the next morning as at present, thus enabling our citizens to get their mail fifteen hours earlier than by the present arrangement. The days are getting longer and will allow time sufficient to open and deliver the mails before an unusually late hour.

A full line of Dr. Price's Unique Perfumes, Colognes and Toilet Waters. These Perfumes have gained their popularity from their exquisite sweetness and permanency of odor. Any lady or gentleman who will give them a trial, will be convinced that no Perfumes, made in this or any other country, can compare with them. They are only to be used to be admired! For sale by Dr. J. G. Wannamaker.

The Board of Directors of the Orangeburg County Agricultural and Mechanical Association met on Wednesday morning last, when it was determined to hold a Floral Fair on the 16th of May next, provided the ladies shall decide that to be a favorable season for flowers. A committee was also appointed to provide a speaker for the occasion. This last feature will add interest to the fair and we hope the committee will be able to secure the services of one whose fame will be a guarantee of success. The premium list will appear in our next issue.

We learn that Col. Alfred Shuler, residing in the upper portion of Charleston County, and a son-in-law of Mr. D. L. Connor, our School Commissioner, died on Friday last after a severe affliction of two weeks. His remains were brought to this county and buried at Target Church. Col. Shuler was a little more than sixty years of age at the time of his death, and these were filled with events that made him a worthy citizen of the community in which he lived. A host of friends and relatives are left behind to mourn his loss and to cherish his memory.

We notice that Hon. Samuel Dibble is improving his law office by putting up additional shelves, which will greatly increase the capacity of his already well-filled library. Every assurance will thus be given his clients that their cases will receive all the benefits and advantages to be derived from the best legal talent and experience of Europe as well as America. We saw here law books of considerably more than two hundred years of age, curiosities in literature, but not the less useful and interesting to a student of law. Mr. Dibble stands, and deservedly so, in the first rank of his profession.

We invite the attention of our readers to the notice of copartnership between Drs. T. K. Keller and Walter Wolfe for the practice of medicine in Lyon's and adjoining townships. Dr. Keller is a physician of many years of successful experience in the community in which he resides, and now commands a large and an increasing practice. Dr. Wolfe graduated at the South Carolina Medical College on the 4th of March last. He had been a pupil under the able and proficient Professor Michel, of Charleston, for one year previous and during his term of lectures, and therefore presents himself to the community fully prepared and versed in all the recent teaching in the practice of his profession. We wish the new firm every success skill and attention will warrant.

Two of the most terribly portentous clouds passed over our town on Tuesday last we have ever seen—one at four o'clock and the other at six o'clock in the afternoon. During the passage of the first cloud the darkness was sufficiently great to necessitate the lighting of lamps in the stores and dwellings. Indeed we heard of one merchant who closed, thinking it was night. At the workshops, hands knocked off, but had to return when light was restored. Many persons were apprehensive of a terrible tornado from the blackness of the cloud and the fiery appearance of its edges, which dipped the horizon in almost every direction. We have since heard of no storm or heavy fall of hail any where in the county, and we trust the threatening cloud passed away without any unusual effects.

The attention of our readers is called to the advertisement in this issue of the Rev. S. T. Hallman. We know Mr. Hallman to be a gentleman of more than ordinary skill and taste in work of this kind, and those in want of neat and well-put up picture frames will do well to give him a trial. It is a home enterprise and should receive the support of our citizens in preference to sending off for work not half so substantially put together or so cheap. Send your orders and give him a trial.

A few weeks ago we announced the departure of Mr. Henry Kohn for New York to purchase his spring stock, we now take occasion to inform our readers of his return with a large, varied, and well selected stock of the most fashionable goods in his line. All of which he is enabled to sell at the lowest possible prices, having bought them on a declining market and in large quantities. Persons, desiring to purchase, will do well to call at once and make their selections before the stock is depleted by large sales.

Corn planting is generally completed throughout the county and active preparations are being made for putting in the cotton crop by our farmers. Very naturally one desiring to save labor and trouble, and at the same time to increase the probabilities of a good stand, directs his attention to the various plans adapted to his purpose with a view to purchase. All things considered, when machines present the same advantages of utility and price, it is better to purchase those made at home than to send your money abroad. We would, therefore, direct the attention of farmers to the Barton and the Connor planters, both reliable, home enterprises, and as cheap as any in the market. Give these machines the preference and keep the money at home.

The following law and law case, taken from the records of the New Haven colony in 1660, are strange reading in these times. The statute says: "Whoever shall enslave or draw the affections of any maide or maide-servant, either for himself or others, without first gaining the consent of her parents, shall pay to the plantation for the offence 40s.; for the second, £4; for the third, shall be imprisoned or corporally punished." Under this law, at a court held in May, 1660, Jacobeth Murline and Sarah Tuttle were prosecuted for "setting down on a chest together, his arms about her waist and her arme upon his shoulder, or about his neck, and continuing in that sinful posture about half an hour, in which time he kyssed her and she kyssed him, or they kyssed one another, as ye witnesses testified." A fellow had to be powerful careful how he went abouting in those days.

While taking our usual stroll looking for locals and items of interest to our readers, we happened in at the store of Mr. C. D. Kortjohn, where we found all hands entrenched behind piles of goods just in, marking and placing on shelves bargains of every description. Hats, Clothing, Shoes, Stationery, Pocket Knives, Embroidery, Insertions, Pins, Needles, Toilet Soaps, Groceries, &c. In fact everything to please and entice. We asked ourselves a simple question, "Where is the money to come from to move this stock?" Friend Kortjohn informed us there was plenty of money in the county. His motto is to sell goods cheap and the money is bound to come. We deposited our last tissue-bath with him and departed a wiser and a satisfied man. We advise our friends to call early and secure bargains from this shipment.

The sad duty again devolves upon us of announcing the death of a resident of our county. Mrs. A. M. Cartmill, wife of Mr. Thomas Cartmill, formerly of the city of Charleston, died very suddenly at her residence in this county on the morning of the 1st of April. For a few days previous to her death she complained of indisposition, but no suspicion of the sad result was entertained by her husband and friends until a few moments before her end, when her own suffering and sudden death aroused the fears and sorrow of her husband at almost the same moment. The funeral services were performed at the residence of Mrs. McNamara by the Rev. J. O. Schacht, of the Catholic Church, on Wednesday afternoon at four o'clock, where a large number of friends met to pay their last respects to an esteemed departed friend, and to mingle their mourning with, and tender their sympathies to the bereaved husband. Mrs. Cartmill was of a cordial, social disposition, and made many friends wherever she was known.

This is the way in which a Louisville girl disposes of a young man, according to the Courier-Journal. She says: "You have asked me pointedly if I can marry you, and I have answered you pointedly that I can. I can marry a man who makes love to a different girl every month. I can marry a man whose main occupation seems to be to join in gauntlet in front of churches, and comment audibly on the people who are compelled to pass through it. I can marry a man whose only means of support is an aged father. I can marry a man who boasts that any girl can be won with the help of a good tailor and an expert tongue. I can marry such a man, but I won't!" At last accounts the young man was doing as well as could be expected under the circumstances.

The second in the series of Dime Readings given by the Young Men's Christian Association of our town was held on Friday evening last at Boliver's Hall, and was a most gratifying success. The pieces, being all of a humorous character and well read, brought down the house and the readers in each instance retired amid a round of applause. No one can with justice be designated as the best reader. Mr. Jas. H. LaRoche rendered elegantly the case of "Bullum vs. Boatum," and showed up the twistings and turnings of the law with fine effect; Col. W. J. DeFreville was inimitable in "My Grand Father's Ram," and left the audience perfectly delighted, if not instructed as to the important story indicated by the title; Mr. J. H. Fowles, happy in his selection, rendered in a most acceptable manner the "Character of Mrs. Caudle," and made many a gentle husband smile with the hope of amends on the part of his better-half; and Maj. A. B. Knowlton in a humorous scene of courtship and a story of his recent Western trip, brought down the house time after time, which attested how well he performed his part. The instrumental music for the occasion was furnished by Capt. Mortimer Glover and the vocal by Mrs. A. B. Knowlton and Master Gussie Knowlton. It is seldom an audience enjoys so rare a musical treat as that given by Mrs. Knowlton on this occasion. Whilst we appreciate fashionable music and admire the talent which gives it so perfectly as Mrs. Knowlton's, yet we must be allowed to express a preference for ballad music, the sweet melodies which reach the heart and melt it at one time to tears, and at another make it burst forth in the merriest glee. The "El-liotts," a ballad by Major Knowlton, was one of these, and the sentiment and air so nicely coalescing that its effect upon the audience was overwhelming. The occasion, all in all, was a most enjoyable one.

DEAR SIR—I am very much pleased with the Water Elevator which you put in my well two weeks ago, and prefer it to any I have ever used. It has had the effect of wonderfully improving the water. When I used a bucket I noticed a heavy deposit of clay in every pailful of water—it is now as clear as spring water.
Respectfully Yours,
